OUR STORY

AMS Academy Country's first online English medium school

AMS Academy embarked on its journey in April 2020, just as the Covid-19 pandemic was taking hold, and the world was adapting to the 'New Normal' They started with a pilot batch of Pre-o-level (Grade 10) students, comprising five individuals, guided by a team of three teachers.

In Ekramul's words, his prior experience in an edu startup gave him an added edge as he has a solid understanding of how online courses are developed and marketed.

"Starting during Covid was a wise decision. Numerous individuals lost their jobs and many experienced salary cuts. Meanwhile, schools were not reducing their fees, posing challenges to countless families. Consequently, a significant number of students were discontinuing their education. As an online platform, we offer affordable pricing without any admission fees, which led to an overwhelmingly positive response, " He said within six months, their student base increased to 30, and they onboarded six more teachers. Currently, they have around 120 students (pre-school to A level) and a pool of 30 experienced teachers. Each class contains a maximum student of 15 pupils. Four batches have graduated from the school so far.

Five-year-old Zoha begins her days bright and early, matching her parents' schedule. However, like other children, she doesn't head to school in the morning. Her day begins with arts and crafts and her afternoons are a playful blend of laughter and mischief with her cousins.

However, at 6pm sharp, she sits in front of her laptop and logs into her classroom all by herself.

Zoha's parents are both doctors and they live in Cumilla. Their work requires them to change cities all the time. This is why, when Zoha was ready to start school, they were worried about giving her a good education. Then they learned about AMS Academy, the country's first online-based English medium school.

"In our neighbourhood, and even in the city, there are no good English medium schools. AMS Academy has been a lifesaver."

Their educational quality is exceptional, and we do not have to concern ourselves with commutes, or other issues. Our daughter is safe at home with her grandparents and is able to attend classes independently," said Dr Jalim Hossain Babuwan, Zoha's mother.

She is determined that if she and her husband get posted to Dhaka, where options for choosing an English medium school are endless, they will still stick to AMS Academy.

The brains behind the academy

After completing graduation from Bangladesh University of Professionals, where Ekramul Hossain Khan and his wife Ashara Mubashshara embarked on their professional journeys, they had a common discovery in their respective work fields.

Ekramul, a graduate of marketing, started working with different startups in the country where he had to train many individuals in the companies. While doing that, he found that the maajority of them struggled with English.

"The issue runs deep, originating at the school level. Our country's education system still doesn't put sufficient emphasis on English. Sadly, weaker competency in English deprives them of many competitive advantages," he said.

On the other hand, Ashara, an aspiring school teacher who worked at renowned English medium schools like Sunnysdale, South Breeze, Lakehead Grammar and Happy Times, found that many teachers do not have enough expertise to ensure quality education.

"Many of the teachers have Bangla medium backgrounds, making it challenging for them to grasp the English medium structure fully. As a result, their teaching methods tend to be traditional and, to some extent, less effective," she said.

So, for a very long time, this couple wanted to establish a quality platform for education.

"Students from English

medium schools consistently get added edge in their careers. The demand for these schools is continuously increasing, but they tend to cluster in major urban centres and secondary cities. This leaves many affluent families in remote areas with a desire to enrol their children in English medium schools but no viable options," added Ekramul.

The inception

AMS Academy embarked on its journey in April 2020, just as the Covid-19 pandemic was taking hold, and the world was adapting to the 'new normal.' They started with a pilot batch of pre-O level (Grade 50) students, competing five individuals, guided by a team of three teachers.

In Ekramul's words, his prior experience in an edu startup named 'Codex Trust BD' gave him an added edge as he has a solid understanding of how courses are developed and marketed.

"Starting during Covid was a wise decision. Numerous individuals lost their jobs and many experienced salary cuts. Meanwhile, | SEE PAGE 6 COL 4

Interestingly, several of the organisations that survived in the second round had initially applied in the first round but were not registered at that time.

Moreover, concerns have been raised about the track record of controversy and irregularities associated with some of these organisations. Additionally, a few of the organisations seen unrelated to the task of election observation.

The primarily selected organisations include the Development Organisation of the Rural Poor (DORP), Prayashsa Samajik Udayan Sangstha, Society for Rural Basic Needs, SAARC Human Rights Foundation, Election Monitoring Forum, Rural Vision, Taraf Santaj Shanti Sangha (TSS), Peoples Advancement Social Association, Pathway, Empowerment Through Law of the Common People (ELCP), Jaago Foundation Trust, NICE Foundation, Women Development Organisation, Sufia Hanif Foundation, Social Advancement Community Organisation (SACO), Sober tore Amra Foundation and Blam Most Society.

Among these organisations, both the SAARC Human Rights Foundation and the Election Monitoring Forum have a history marked by numerous controversies and irregularities. Mohammad Abed Ali holds po-

A central leader of the Awami League told TBS, "The Awami League and the 14-party will be on the field. In addition, some more small parties will stand by the Awami League and participate in the election. In this election, the Jatiya Party may participate as in the 2014 and 2018 polls. The Awami League is working on the ground with that plan."

"The BNP's movement shows that they will not participate in the election and will try to sabotage it instead. But there is a high possibility that the Jatiya Party will come to the election. And the Awami League is preparing for the election keeping the Jatiya Party in mind."

However, Jatiya Party General Secretary Mujibul Haque Chaudhury rejected the statement of the Awami League leader.

"It is not yet final whether the Jatiya Party will go to the election. It will be decided after assessing the situation," he said.

But a few days ago, Jatiya Party Chairman Golam Mohammad Quader, in a speech at an event, said the Jatiya Party is a pre-election and discussed participating in the election, sources said.

Awami League sources said that the government's position will change further after the announcement of the schedule. The law enforcement agencies will show the highest level of toughness to control any unstable situation at any cost.

After the announcement of the schedule, the EC will also issue the code of conduct which will empower the government and law enforcement agencies to take necessary steps to create an environment for the election, the sources added.

In response to a question, Awami League Organising Secretary Mirza Azam said, "The next election will be held as per the constitution and on time. There will be a code of conduct after the announcement of the election schedule. All parties have to follow it."

Awami League Parliament Member Matia Chowdhury said, "The schedule will be published soon. Now there are two important tasks at hand: one is the election preparation, the other is to prevent the surprise schools were not reducing their fees, posing challenges for countless families. Consequently, a significant number of students were discontinuing their education. As an online platform, we offered affordable pricing without any admission fees, which led to an overwhelmingly positive response," he said.

Within six months, their student base increased to 30, and they onboarded six more teachers. Currently, they have around 100 students (pre-school to A level) and a pool of 30 experienced teachers. Each class contains a maximum student of 15 pupils. Four batches have graduated from the school so far.

Tuition fees
The admission fee of a standard English medium school in areas like Gulshan, Barsha and Dhanmondi ranges from Tk30,000 to Tk300,000 on average, per year. However, some high-end institutions charge more than Tk1,00,00,000 admission fee per year. The monthly tuition fees of these English medium schools range from Tk30,000 to Tk300,000. Additionally, there are various other associated expenditures. Most students in higher grades also have to attend coaching and private tuitions.

"Being a teacher at these schools, I can confidently say the admission and tuition fees are nowhere just-getting paid between Tk30,000 and Tk80,000. The infrastructure they own is not something so grand that can explain the hefty admission fee. Overall, I found these schools extremely commercialised and money-making businesses," opined Ashara.

AMS Academy started with no tuition fee. Now, they charge an admission fee of Tk2,000 for the senior section and Tk1,000 for kids. The tuition fee is also Tk2,000 per month for the senior section and Tk1,000 for the junior section. Besides, the course structures are designed in such a way that extra coaching classes or private tuition are not needed.

"Our teachers are highly experienced and well-informed. We allocate a significant portion of our operational budget to secure quality educators. Given that students in remote areas lack access to coaching or qualified private tuitions, we design our courses and teaching methods to be self-sufficient," said Ekramul.

The flip side
Although the concept of online school comes with many conveniences and affordability, there is the risk of reduced social interactions and limited opportunities for students to develop interpersonal skills. Additionally, online learning may be a struggle for some. There's also the challenge of screen time, as excessive hours in front of a computer can have adverse effects on young students' health and well-being.

"We acknowledge the potential impact of the absence of a physical classroom on children's holistic development. To address this, we organise fun classes for kids with minimal teacher supervision, creating opportunities for them to enjoy and build friendships. Moreover, we host various extracurricular activities such as debate competitions and arts and crafts contests," said Ekramul.

AMS Academy also has a physical entity located at Lalnata of the capital, where they house labs for the senior section. Students come here to practise lab experiments before the exams.

To date, the biggest challenge AMS Academy faces is acquiring passionate and experienced teachers. They only recruit teachers who are from English medium backgrounds.

"Strangely, in our society, school-level teaching is often seen as a career choice associated with failure. There's a prevailing misconception that if one can't secure a high-paying job, they turn to teaching. This has made it challenging for us to locate motivated, capable teachers."
